accumulation phase has price consolidation near the open price level in the Asian range(5 pm to 12.00 am EST) followed by the manipulation phase where the price run above the open price level and crosses above the Asian range's high level.

2.price take out the buy stops from the Asian range high level(stop losses of people who sold from the Asian range high) which is called liquidity sweeping and start to begin the downfall.

3.In the Distribution phase price shows the true direction of the market of that day which in this case is bearish.
